Introducing the NOW® Chair from Nienkämper.
Simplicity in conference room seating is now within reach.
Design: Mark Müller

Toronto – June 12, 2006 - Today’s boardrooms, meeting rooms and private offices need affordable and contemporary conference seating.

The NOW® Chair is designed to give the user an unusual level of comfort and ergonomics with a minimal amount of mechanical features. The tightly tailored upholstery components speak to the historical connection to fine upholstery that Nienkämper has been renowned for. The contrast between fine leathers and highly polished aluminum make this design particularly compatible with existing conference table collections. The NOW® Chair embodies contemporary aesthetics that comfortably work in any professional business environment.

The NOW® Chair is based on the latest in research and design for ergonomic seating. No adhesives are used in the construction. All materials in the construction can be easily separated for rework, recovery or recycling. Smart options like height and back adjustments, a choice of base, caster, adjustable base mechanisms and upholstery materials give this product a wide range of potential uses in any corporate environment. The NOW® Chair has many options for learning centers and fixed seating.
